

International Organization Recognizes Auckland Dentist as Top Dentist

The World Congress of Minimally-Invasive Dentistry awards Dr Abdalla for Lifetime Contribution to the organization and spreading the philosophy worldwide.

Auckland dentist – Dr. Hisham Abdalla, one of New Zealand’s leaders in Minimally-Invasive Dentistry and advanced Laser Dentistry, has been awarded Diplomat status, Lifetime contribution award and inducted to the Directors Board of the organization.

The World Congress of Minimally-Invasive Dentistry (WCMID) awards and honors individuals who have made significant contributions to the advancement of the art and science of Minimally-Invasive Dentistry. Criteria for receiving such status include using breakthrough technologies, preventative measures and restorative treatments that help retain the maximum possible original tooth, gum and bone structures, in the most comfortable and long lasting manner, for the patients. The Diplomat is also judged on their ability to present, teach, and publish on these subjects to fellow colleagues, helping enhance the quality of dentistry provided worldwide.

“I am humbled to receive recognition for doing what I’m passionate about; providing people who entrust me with their health the most advanced treatments possible, helping them achieve their oral health goals and teaching these scientific and philosophy breakthroughs to fellow colleagues. My vision is to eliminate fear of the dentist. Eliminating tooth decay (and its costly consequences) from my community within the next ten year is another strong goal” said Abdalla.

Dr Abdalla is the youngest member of the WCMID and the fastest to achieve all the levels of hierarchy in the organization, Fellowship, Diplomat, Lifetime member award, and Directors Board member. Dr Abdalla is a well-recognized leader in Minimally-Invasive and Laser Dentistry in New Zealand, Australia and now the USA. He lectures regularly all over Australasia and publishes articles in dental journals in Australia, New Zealand and the USA.

He represented New Zealand dentists as the finalist for Young Lecturer of the Year Award at the prestigious Royal Australasian College of Dental Surgeons in Sydney in September 2006. He is the founder of and main instructor at the Laser Lifecare Institute, in Auckland CBD. The Institute has already achieved international support with dentists and dental students coming from the UK, USA, Australia and around New Zealand to learn about Lasers and other technological revolutions in Dentistry. Also associating with the University of Queensland in Certifying dentists and hygienists in the safe use of Lasers.

Dr Abdalla has recently returned from the annual conference of the WCMID in San Diego, USA. Founded in 1999, the WCMID’s purpose is to educate and encourage the practice of Minimally-Invasive Dentistry, also known as microdentistry. Membership in the WCMID includes dentists from more than 13 countries worldwide and has achieved a milestone by enhancing the curriculum of 40 prestigious Dental universities in the USA to teach MID to dental students, hence improving the standard of care in dentistry. Annual conferences have been held in New York, Australia, Washington, San Francisco, San Diego and Canada. Next year the conference will be held in Chicago.
